

MY FIRST FULL YEAR OF
RUNNING MY BUSINESS.

LESSONS AND PIVOTS

SWIPE →

We posted 76 times on Instagram, and went from 0 followers to 33.

That's a tiny number. I wrote about it anyway, along with everything else I tried this year.

Some of it really didn't work.
The comics took hours to make.

And never reached anyone new on Instagram.

What helped most was working out what each flop was telling me.

We learned Instagram carousels don't get shown to non-followers. A poor way to get discovered there.

A conference full of the wrong audience taught me to work out who I'm building for before I turn up, not after.

So every experiment pointed somewhere better. Including the pivot: helping women who can't code yet build their own products.

The pivot, and the flops that led to it, is what the full article is about.
