We're excited to announce...|

YOUR PROMPT

Write a short announcement for our customers about the new "saved dashboard view" feature.

you 9:41

We're excited to announce the launch of our new Saved Dashboard View feature!

Ask an AI chat assistant with just the feature name, and you get the announcement every company has posted. Correct, and instantly skipped.

The fix is context. Tell it what the feature does, why it exists, the proof, when it's live, and who it's for.

YOUR PROMPT

Write a short announcement to our customers about our new "Saved Dashboard Views" feature.

- What it does: save your favourite filters, reopen them in one click.
- Why: our top customer request; beta testers report real time saved.
- When: live for everyone today.
- Audience: our users, small teams and founders.

Saved Dashboard Views is here. Save your favourite filters and reopen them in one click, no more rebuilding your view every session. Our most-requested feature, already saving beta testers real time. ❤️

Finally! Been waiting for this 🙌

Same request, real facts. Now the announcement leads with the value, sounds like a person, and it resonates with your customers.

The context checklist for any feature announcement:

- ☒ What it is, in one line
- ☒ Who it's for
- ☒ The problem it solves
- ☒ Proof it works
- ☒ When it's available
- ☒ How to try it

Quick gut-check: the last thing you launched, did people reply, or just scroll past?

Without context, a chat assistant guesses, and guesses read as filler. Hand it the background instead.

Launch emails, changelogs, landing pages: it works anywhere context does the heavy lifting. Practise it in the Write Better with AI: Prompting Foundations for Product Managers course.
